

MATELITA VUAKOSO

Matelita is a determined, values-based leader with over a decade of experience in the sports industry, beginning as an athlete before transitioning into a professional career.

Currently serving as the Social Responsibilities Programme Officer at Oceania Football, she is passionate about harnessing the power of sport to create social change and empower communities. Her work focuses on developing leadership capacity, safeguarding, and good governance, while also championing opportunities for young people to thrive.

With an open, positive, and adventurous mindset, she thrives on collaboration and sharing best practices to achieve common goals. Driven by her greatest joy of seeing others grow, she is committed to mentoring, building capacity, and inspiring the next generation of leaders in sport and beyond.

Special Project: Pathfinders – Building Professional Capability

Enhancing professional development in Oceania Football by building trainer capacity, supporting continuous growth of women leaders, and empowering others through structured programmes.
