

OLIVIA HOGARTH

Olivia is the Human Resources Officer at the Secretariat of the Pacific Regional Environment Programme (SPREP), where she drives inclusive policies, capacity-building, and gender mainstreaming to strengthen workplaces across the region.

She is a proud Samoan multi-sport athlete, having represented her country internationally in netball, sailing, and other sports, including the U21 Netball World Cup and the Pacific Mini Games.

Beyond her athletic achievements, Olivia has demonstrated leadership as President of the Collegiate Sports Club Samoa and as a key support for Team Samoa at the 2019 Pacific Games, gaining valuable insights into athlete advocacy and sports governance.

Passionate about mentorship and creating opportunities, she works to develop athlete pathways, close gaps in governance, and foster growth for future generations. As a mother, volunteer, and leader, Olivia is committed to empowering communities through sport, education, and strong governance, ensuring people have the tools they need to succeed.

Special Project: Pathways – Building Athlete Pathways & Growing Local Players

Providing support and development of local netball players in Samoa by facilitating club collaboration, training programmes, and performance monitoring.
